LEF Theatre Group

LEF, or the Leiden English Freshers Theatre Group was founded in 1997 by faculty members and students of the English Department of Leiden University, in an effort to combine their love for the English language with the passion they had for the theatre. Since then, the company, run solely by dedicated volunteers, has performed a multitude of plays and even musicals in theatres throughout Leiden and Leiderdorp, ranging from the time-honoured Shakespearean dramas to the bombastic and more modern Moulin Rouge. Recently, the LEF Theatre Group has embraced a more modern, stylish and bigger approach to performing, in favour of the traditional "black-box" chamber piece-style plays. However, no matter what the production, one of the main goals of LEF has been for anyone, no matter how experienced, to have fun and to celebrate their shared love of theatre. Productions generally take place in December and May and both inexperienced first-year students ("Freshers") and more experienced members may apply. Besides acting and doing workshops, we also aim to be a student society in our own right, frequently organising events and taking our members out on drinks to bond.

Besides the Board, Director, and Actors, there is a fourth pillar in LEF on which we depend: the back staggers. In LEF, we have the following teams:

- Props
- Lights & Sounds
- Make-Up
- Set Design
- Costumes

What you'll be doing

While the general goal is to have fun amongst ourselves, we also strive to be a professional theatre company: your expertly applied make-up and well-styled hair is an important tool in which we reflect our ambitions towards the audience.

You'll be thinking of make-up concepts, together with the actors and the director, and you'll be expected to occasionally provide visual examples of your thoughts. LEF has some stage make-up available, and a make-up budget, but if you have stuff with you or tips this will help in the selection process. Estimated general workload will vary hugely, since your job doesn't require you to be at every rehearsal session. Usually, we would like you to be available to meet with the Board and the Director once every two/three weeks for about 1 hour to discuss and exchange ideas and for you to provide us with examples and vice versa. We'd also like you to be present at at least one rehearsal session every two weeks (usually lasting about three hours) to get a sense of the team and to make sure you know our actors. In the meantime you should be available through Facebook/WhatsApp/E-mail to answer questions.

Expect more work close to performance days. Please understand that since we're a student organisation, you might be expected to sometimes offer your services on weekends.

You will have the option of going out for the position of Team-Leader, or General Team member. As team leader, you'll check in with the director and stage manager every once in a while to talk about your groups ideas and discuss the progress on your group's activities. You'll also coordinate and delegate tasks among the people in your backstage team.

Applicant profile

- You're communicative, active, don't shy away from a challenge, punctual, and creative in thinking of new possibilities.
- Earlier experience in the field of hair and make-up (business or otherwise) is preferred but not required; it is certainly a big plus if you have earlier work to show us. However, it is more important that you have a vision (that overlaps with our producer's/Board's). Most of all, you have to like doing it.
- At LEF, we're all about being a platform for all theatre enthusiasts. Please be aware that while most members of the Board and the director's team speak both Dutch and English, not all actors and backstage members will. Fluency in English is not required, but being able to at least express yourself in English well enough, and not feeling weird while speaking English with your fellow Dutchmen (if a non-Dutchie is around), is.
- To be considered for inclusion in our acting group, it is vital that you are available on certain key dates. These include the rehearsal weekend and performance dates, among other things. Please refer to one of our Board members during auditions for more info.

What LEF offers you while you are with us:

- Work experience in one of the most fun international student societies in Leiden. The fruits of your labour will be shown on stage for literally hundreds of people to see on performance nights!
- The official LEF T-Shirt.
- A two-night production training weekend at a remote location somewhere in the Netherlands.
- Free food cooked by our lovely kitchen team during the production weekends and performance days.
- The opportunity to let your creative spirit (and capable hands) run wild in a artistically charged and dynamic organisation.
- Acting or Theatre Production workshops.
- Drink/Pub Nights!
- The chance to meet a lot of new people all excited to create something new and fun!

Letters of application can be sent to joinlef@gmail.com. Please put in the title that you'd like to join LEF, the name of the position you're trying out for, along with your name. We'll also make sure to send you the dates for the next auditions, where you'll be able to talk to us about your position.
