

For our upcoming production, LET Theatre Group is looking for an enthusiastic

MEMBER of the COSTUMES TEAM (M/F) (3 – 10 hours/week)

LET Theatre Group

LET, or Leiden English Theatre was founded in 1997 by faculty members and students of the English Department of Leiden University, in an effort to combine their love for the English language with the passion they had for the theatre. Since then, the company, run solely by dedicated volunteers, has performed a multitude of plays and even musicals in theatres throughout Leiden and Leiderdorp, ranging from the time-honoured Shakespearean dramas to the bombastic and more modern Moulin Rouge. Recently, the LET Theatre Group has embraced a more modern, stylish and bigger approach to performing, in favour of the traditional "black-box" chamber piece-style plays. However, no matter what the production, one of the main goals of LET has been for anyone, no matter how experienced, to have fun and to celebrate their shared love of theatre. Productions generally take place in December and May and both inexperienced first-year students and more experienced members may apply. Besides acting and doing workshops, we also aim to be a student society in our own right, frequently organising events and taking our members out on drinks to bond.

Besides the Board, Director, and Actors, there is a fourth pillar in LET on which we depend:

the back stagers. In LET, we have the following teams:

Props
Set Design

Lights & Sounds
Costumes

Make-Up

What you'll be doing

While the general goal is to have fun amongst ourselves, we also strive to be a professional theatre company: the costumes our actors wear play an important role in reflecting this: well designed and properly sourced costumes can mean the difference between the audience accepting our illusion of another world, or not.

You'll be in charge to find, create and/or buy/borrow costumes for the actors to wear. You will also sometimes have to change costumes in a way, for instance cut, sew, trim, or colour parts of the costume. You'll be working in close contact with the actors and will have to speak with them often to together create their character's perfect outfit.

While we'd like backstage members to also come to rehearsals every once in a while, the most time you'll spend working will be with your fellow team members outside of rehearsal times. The general workload is a rough estimation, mainly based on the rehearsal times (there are usually 2 rehearsal sessions of 3 – 4 hours a week), your team will probably spend less time; sometimes more, sometimes less, with more work being expected around the rehearsal weekend and performance days. In the meantime you should be available through Facebook/WhatsApp/E-mail to answer questions. Please understand that since we're a student organisation, you might be expected to sometimes offer your services on weekends. You will be provided with a budget from which you'll have to work, and being creative with the spending of it is key. There is often limited time and personnel available with which to create your vision. You'll be required to regularly provide updates to your fellow team members regarding your progress.

You will have the option of going out for the position of Team-Leader, or General Team member. As team leader, you'll check in with the director and stage manager every once in a while to talk about your groups ideas and discuss the progress on your group's activities. You'll also coordinate and delegate tasks among the people in your backstage team.

Applicant profile

You're communicative, active, don't shy away from a challenge, punctual, and creative in thinking of new possibilities.

You like to arrange/take care of different fabrics and know how to come up with ideas for the perfect outfit. If necessary you know how to create outfits as well.

At LET, we're all about being a platform for all theatre enthusiasts. Please be aware that while most members of the Board and the director's team speak both Dutch and English, not all actors and backstage members will. Fluency in English is not required, but being able to at least express yourself in English well enough, and not feeling weird while speaking English with your fellow Dutchmen (if a non-Dutchie is around), is.

To be considered for inclusion in our acting group, it is vital that you are available on certain key dates. These include the rehearsal weekend and performance dates, among other things. Please refer to one of our Board members during auditions for more info.

What LET offers you while you are with us:

Work experience in one of the most fun international student societies in Leiden. The fruits of your labour will be shown on stage for literally hundreds of people to see on performance nights!

The official LET T-Shirt.

A two-night production training weekend at a remote location somewhere in the Netherlands.

Free food cooked by our lovely kitchen team during the production weekends and performance days.

The opportunity to let your creative spirit (and capable hands) run wild in a artistically charged and dynamic organisation.

Acting or Theatre Production workshops. Drink/Pub Nights!

The chance to meet a lot of new people all excited to create something new and fun!

Letters of application can be sent to joinus.let@gmail.com. Please put in the title that you'd like to join LET, the name of the position you're trying out for, along with your name. We'll also make sure to send you the dates for the next auditions, where you'll be able to talk to us about your position.
